THURSDAY MORNING, MAY 14 1863

Injuring the National Currency

The Standard cordially endorses our position as to the duty of a loyal press, and admits that several appointments in Washington Territory might have been materially improved," though it asserts that "they will compare favorably with those made under former Administrations" That, even if so, in our judgment, is no justification or excuse whatever for republican incapacity or dishonesty. The people expected improvement, and not simply a change of masters Our party promised reform, and will be held responsible if the promise is broken The mere running the machine, as we found it is by no means the true mission of the republicans, and if that is all that is to be accomplished, a vast deal of time and money has been spent in vain. We hoped for officers, honest faithful and capable—not for Surveyor Generals who do not know a solar compass from a box of backing, nor Judges whose knowledge of law is yet in embryo, nor Indian Agents whose only idea of their position is that it furnishes a wide and fruitful field for speculation and gain. True, we have had enough of such under loco foco Administrations, but many of them were worse, more ignorant and more dishonest than some of the officers appointed on this coast, we never heard of them But enough of such cattle We are glad the Standard agrees with us as to their unfitness

The Standard excuses itself for its first attack upon us because, as it states, "that it was apparent a few months ago that the Oregonian was determined to injure, to the extent of its ability, the circulation of the national paper currency." What is alluded to, we do not know and cannot imagine We never, in the slightest degree, sought to disparage or injure the circulation of paper money. We thought, and still think, that while it is at a discount, none but a knave or a bankrupt would be disposed to pay debts with it, when he was bound in honor to pay them in gold or its equivalent We cannot injure its circulation. We cannot increase its value or promote its circulation, nor can any man or set of men. Legislation, even, like that absurd system attempted to be enforced at Olympia, is powerless against the laws of trade. The owner of money or of property will fix his own value upon it, and if he demands a price twenty-five per cent higher, when it is paid in paper, than when paid in gold, he will get it or keep his property That is and ought to be his privilege, and if we owe a neighbor a hundred dollars, we have no moral right to pay him what only cost us half that amount, and is really only worth that to him. We think, and have thought ever since paper became currency on the Pacific coast, that in many respects it might have been as well if gold had been withdrawn from circulation and had become an article of merchandise All business would then have adapted itself to the new currency as it had done at the East This, however, for many reasons, was deemed impracticable, and if we, and everybody in Oregon, were now to insist that every dollar in paper was worth a dollar in gold, we should shortly find ourselves flooded with the former, which speculators would pour upon us, so long as our gold lasted That would be a trifle more foolish than we expect to be, even to gratify the wishes of those who presume to doubt our loyalty because we will not stultify ourselves. The truth is, that the national currency is worth as much here as any where in the land, after making allowance for exchange, and we honestly think that those make so much noise about its depreciation because salaries are paid in that way (and some of them are shily trying to persuade the Government to pay them in gold) had better save their wind, and take what they can get, without grumbling If their wages don't suit them, they can resign, and not ask for more of a bleeding country which certainly gives them all that they are worth Somebody will be found to take their places. There are plenty of patriots who will be ready to enlist in their room, if not as soldiers No conscription is required to fill the offices

We again tell the Standard we have never sought to injure the circulation of the national currency, we are sorry that it is not worth as much as gold, but it is not, for reasons which no politician or newspaper or man, can control That is a fact, of which it is foolish to make denial and idle to make complaint

NOBLE SENTIMENTS —The Hon James T Brady, a life long democrat, at the great Union League meeting in New York recently closed a telling Union speech with the following language

I say to my friends at the South, however gallant and chivalric and persevering may be their struggle in the field, all history will be false, all analogies fallacious, every promise to the human race an absurdity, if this people who have conquered the barren East, and conquered the ocean, and are willing to conquer all circumstances of privation shall not own the whole of this continent before this country expires.

Which do you prefer, the destruction of our nationality with slavery, or the preservation of our nationality without slavery?

Letter from Auburn

FOR MOUNTAINEER CORRESPONDENT

AUBURN May 6th 1863

For months the miners were waiting for water, and confidently expecting that each week would bring them a full supply, but they are mostly waiting yet, with equal anxiety and much less hope Winter has gone and we are upon the very verge of summer We have watched the melting snow until scarce a vestige remains clinging to the distant mountains less and less the effect has been to cover the hills with grass but no drop of water seems to have found its way into the gulches, and the amount of water running in the larger creeks is far less than it was one year ago

It was one year ago the 1st of May, that I camped on Elk Canon on the site of the present town of Auburn and then there was still considerable snow upon the hills around and during the whole month there was a fair supply of water in gulches that are now quite dry There was more rain during all that month while so far during the present year there has not been a good sized shower but a most provoking season of delightful sunshine The supply of water furnished by ditch companies is very small prior to the 1st of May and the miners have received a determined aversion to the Canal Companies based upon the fact that they took advantage of their necessities as they say last winter to get their services for very small wages, and that now their water rates are above the ability of the small mining companies who may only need 20 inches of water to use while the Company only offer to supply 40 inches and over at reasonable rates, charging very much more in proportion for a smaller supply The miners have called a meeting for the purpose of laying out their claims at Elk Prairie as they can get water at living rates or purchase a supply of natural water And there remains an interesting question to be decided whether the Canal Company can better live without the miners or the miners can live with it the Canal Company, which question will I trust be solved by the Company turning them water as reasonably as they can afford, and the miners being able to pay up for it in first rate style as I think they will if they have a chance There are plenty of good diggings about here that will pay for water I heard of a company at Live but Gulch, who last week made a big thing of it one day's work yielding near $1 000, and the rest being first rate

One effect of the dull times here is to drive off many lawyers to Boise We can source a few as well as not, and the rest will do better for their absence

The law furnishes much less business than was anticipated, from the general depression of business, and the docket of the Circuit Court does not promise to be very large

From Boise we learn that fruits are generally good, and a great stampede going on for Wood river

I learn of no particular matters of interest to narrate, relative to affairs in this county The Canal Company have as yet no certain supply of water to depend upon but hope to have in the main supply from Pine Creek, before the nearer streams that them ditch has now reached shall give out I hope they may I will try to gather more general items of interest for next time

The Cleveland Herald ridicules the story that President Lincoln is about to visit the Northern cities in order to get the sentiment of the people, and says —

Talk about the President mingling with the masses! He cannot do it No man to day, save he who has business with the President, or who has an impudence that stops at nothing, can secure an interview with him, and nine hundred and ninety nine out of every thousand who do secure an interview take an ax to grind, and so, of course only labor to make the President turn the stone so as to sharpen their tool The only reliance the country has, is upon the honesty and moral courage the President carries with him into the Executive chair If he has stock sufficient to resist all assaults and approaches for four years, well and good, if not, no change of air, no change of scene, no visit to the Northern cities will avail

Poor Washington is abused as the vilest of places,—a gambling drinking, profane, dishonest hole —whereas Washington proper has a population of as respectable people as any city in the land But here centres, of course, all the selfishness that political ambition with its millions, or gnawing want with its penury, begets in the land The ambitious man, or the needy man, who does not come to Washington to get an office, is he, only he who cannot raise funds sufficient to pay his fare thither Washington would be well enough if outsiders would let her alone She is a good deal like the case to which the old lady referred who was asked if she really thought a dis virtuous woman could become virtuous She jerked her cap border adjusted her "specs" and said, Yes, if the pesky men would let her alone!

NEW YORK EAST CONFERENCE OF THE M E CHURCH —On assembling in Williamsburg, Judge Betts, in obedience to an order of the Conference, administered the oath of allegiance to the members After the usual routine of business had been transacted calls were made for General Wool, who reluctantly consented to make a speech, in the course of which he referred to the letter he had written Secretary Cass, calling his attention to the importance of taking prompt steps to stifle the rebellion which was then in its infancy Gen He urged Cass to use his influence with President Buchanan, and endeavor to get him to use his power in arresting its progress In that letter General Wool said he predicted certain things which must and would happen and which had already taken place He then alluded to the present position of the war which he thought hopeful The Southerners had plotted for seventy years to perpetuate the institution of slavery, and to protect the slave trade If he had time he could prove it. He would never be contented until the Union was restored He regretted the idea of some men that we were the Union Where shall we draw the line? It was no matter where or how we fought the battle was sure to follow The Northern rivers must have an outlet, and so with the other sections of the country Some talked of purchasing New England out of the Union He favored keeping the country together, and therefore, he was opposed to a separation of any kind, he was opposed to all and any kind of compromise, and wanted nothing but the whole country

Evidence of the increasing misery of food in the rebel States is fast accumulating The Savannah Republican of March 12th says

The want of subsistence is the greatest obstacle that lies in the path of our new Confederacy—farmers to draw to the bay nets and iron clad ships of the enemy If not provided against we are a ruined and undone and subjugated people This is no idle speculation The people will suffer first and be brought to starvation, and then the army The planters may rest assured that the blockades shall first visit their own doors for the Government will not allow the defenders of our liberties to starve while there is bread in the land and force enough to seize it

SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE DAILY OREGONIAN

LATER FROM the EAST.

Dates to May 7th.

NEW YORK May 7th —Richmond papers of the 5th says Stoneman's force made sad havoc with the railroad at Hanover Junction, and in other places besides a large amount of valuable property and all the railroad bridges to within five miles of Richmond — Some papers also say Stonewall Jackson is seriously wounded

Last evening a Washington Star says, we have news from Stoneman that he divided his force, 12,000 cavalry into three columns the 1st commanded by himself, committed the havoc They left several killed Second column under Averil crossing the Rappahannock at Kelly's Ford pushed to Brandy Station, near Culpepper driving in the rebel pickets He went then in the direction of Culpepper where 500 rebel cavalry were captured and a large amount of flour He then pushed on after the retreating rebels following to Rappidan Station where they burned the railroad bridge over which they retreated after a sharp fight

Richmond papers May 6th claim that they took, in the engagement on Saturday 1000 prisoners from our 11th corps

WASHINGTON May 6th.—The object of Gen Averill's expedition seems to have been the destruction of Rappahan Station Bridge which the rebels, in their retreat fired for him After proceeding as far as Orange Church, he returned with his force to the main army at Chancellorville joining it on Sunday on the column which left the Rappahannock at the same time, pushed directly for Gordonsville, and positive information has been received regarding his success in cutting the Virginia Central Railroad between Gordonsville and Richmond and about ween the former place and Charlottesville other columns destroying the road communication between Fredericksburg and Richmond, completely stopping railroad communication in any direction out from Lee's main army breaking up for the time being the enemy's facilities for furnishing supplies

NEW YORK, May 7th —The Tribune Extra Correspondent says the army of the Potomac crossed the river at the U S Ford, to the old camp, along Aqua Railroad The crossing was effected with loss Sedgwick, at Fredericksburg was overwhelmed by numbers and barely able to escape He saved his artillery and trains His loss is about 5 000

FREDERICKSBURG May 6th —The heights are occupied by the enemy Hooker commenced crossing Tuesday night and was completed by the 3d and 5th corps Lee's sharpshooters picked off a number of artillery horses and officers Their batteries occupied all the advantageous points and were replied with vigor on our forces On consultation of commanders it was decided that the enemy were too powerful Sedgwick unwilling to attempt to join Hooker added to the counsel of the corps commanders, shook Hooker's hand and he ordered the evacuation

The Times's correspondent says there was a time, from Friday morning to Monday night that Hooker might have attacked and defeated Lee but he lacked the ability to give the orders

The army was greatly demoralized by this inglorious retreat

The Tribune closes by saying that the army is safe, less 10,000 men and a much larger number unfit for duty

The Herald says, it is rumored that Lee has massed his army on our right and that Hooker will change his base Hooker is much disheartened, but there is hope yet

NEW YORK, May 7th —A dispatch from headquarters states that seven rebel divisions are reported to be in front of our army, with Stewart's cavalry on our left It is believed the rebels are bringing reinforcements overland He keeps up a bold front and seems to be well supplied with ammunition Our 11th corps retrieved its reputation twice repulsing the flanks of the enemy Gen Whipple died on Tuesday from his wounds

The list of casualties thus far show the following Meads corps, 2 officers and 21 privates killed, 7 officers and 152 privates wounded First division Sickles's corps 3 officers and 30 privates killed, 6 officers and 124 privates wounded Berry's division 13 officers and 153 privates killed and 85 officers and 981 privates wounded Sickles's corps 4 staff officers and 7 line officers and 79 privates killed, 7 staff officers, 46 line officers and 190 privates wounded First division, third corps, 15 officers and 82 men killed, 6 officers and 788 privates wounded

The New York Times extra states the rebel troops which reinforced Lee, came from Lynchburg via Gordonsville

The Times says had we been content with holding the heights in the rear of Fredericksburg all would have been well as we had the enemy in a tight place

THE MYSTERIOUS AFFAIR NEAR BELLINGHAM BAY —We have received additional information concerning the burning of a fisherman on Dog Island on the American side He was found lying dead, having been either burned to death, or murdered, it is not known which, but suspicions are entertained that he had met with foul play, probably at the hands of the Indians He was discovered lying in the cabin of a sloop which was also partially destroyed by fire, and consequently the name of the vessel could not be ascertained The discovery was made by three men living on Swinomish Island who took the body and buried it before having notified the U S authorities of the circumstance The head and other parts of the body were badly burned and several small pieces of coin were found scattered on the cabin floor and a scuffle had taken place there to and the guilty parties had found it necessary to leave before they had fully accomplished their object Deputies of the American authorities will institute inquiries in reference to this case which is now enshrouded in doubt and mystery The name of the deceased has not yet been ascertained —Victoria Chronicle

JOHN SCHERL GIVING IT UP —It is known on the very best authority in Washington that John Slidell the Confederate emissary at Paris, has written to his Government that the cause of the Confederacy is utterly without prospect of success He says that neither in France nor England will the new nation be recognized, nor will any measures of intervention be adopted Both Governments will try for a time play with the subject to please the tastes of the aristocracy but the matter of them is strongly determined against doubtful steps in the face of this opinion It is further told that he has consequently advised his government to make the best terms in the face of public opinion Slidell further says but it is well known from other sources that the strong feeling in favor of the North created by the emancipation proclamation compelled the Ministers to refrain from all acts of hostility toward the free States

POOR PILLOW —Gen Pillow complains in a late speech that he has suffered the loss of 2 000 negroes and 2 000 bales of cotton besides many contrabands, by the war Alas the negroes contrabands and cotton gone what is left of poor Pillow?

SOCIAL DEMORALIZATION —A lady recently escaped from Virginia, writes to the Philadelphia Inquirer that the social demoralization existing in the South is very great Though liquor of the most inferior kind is selling at $30 or $40 a gallon, many of the highest standing are now habitual drunkards Fist fights among old residents and neighbors are common in all the towns through which I have passed This demoralization is not confined to the men only, ladies of the highest character have fallen into disgraceful habits Preaching, Sabbath and day school in most places have been suspended The officers and general throughout the South in the last dutch winter, but if it were left to the ranks they would willingly give up the tyrannical military Government of Jeff Davis for their old Government at Washington Any man between sixteen and fifty five years of age is liable to be arrested by any civil or military officer or any magistrate, or even constable, may, without a written order, take a man by the collar in any town, with me to the army

U. S. GRAND JURY REPORT

To the Honorable the District Court of the United States for the District of Oregon The Grand Jury would respectfully report that they have now been in session three days that they have found two indictments and returned the same into Court, that they have inquired into a number of infractions of U S laws, but from want of time and means to send for necessary witnesses, have not been able to find indictments, although satisfied that crimes have been committed

The Grand Jury was discharged from further attendance

Court adjourned until 9 o'clock to day

LADIES' MEETING IN BEHALF OF THE SANITARY FUND.—The ladies of Portland and vicinity are requested to meet at the Methodist Church in this city on Saturday next at 2 o'clock P. M. to devise measures for securing a liberal contribution in aid of the objects of the Sanitary Commission All ladies interested in the success of this loyal and philanthropic work are invited to attend

BY REQUEST

The notice to ladies in regard to a meeting to form a plan for rendering assistance to the Sanitary Commission, will we trust receive a cordial response We are glad to learn that many ladies in Portland feel now more deeply than ever, an anxious interest in the welfare of sick and suffering soldiers The last great battle added tens of thousands to the sad list of those who need immediate aid and care Their agony and pain be unheeded?

We are sure that the women of this county only need to be informed how they can act promptly and they will cheerfully do all that is possible to help the brave troops who are fighting for them and for all

PROBATE COURT.—Business unusually dull to-day in this Court. Only two cases on docket Neville Boardman was relieved of ten days and costs by his Honor for being disorderly and violent in his conduct.

The second case was that of a young man who was arraigned for immoral conduct, but was discharged. We hope, however, that the young man has learned a lesson which will last him through life.

CITY COUNCIL.—There was not much business transacted last night by the Common Council. An Ordinance was introduced and read first time instructing the City Collector and Recorder to receive nothing but coin for taxes, fines and other dues to the city

Invitation to accompany Columbian Engine Co. No 3 on an excursion to Dalles on Monday next, was accepted.

UNPARALLELED CRUELTY.—At a charivari recently in Olympia, W. T., an old man who participated in the fun lost one of his legs. The serenading party were very anxious to get hold of the bridegroom in order to make him "stand treat," and in doing this the front door of the building was partly opened, when this old man thrust his leg in to keep it open for those inside, becoming exasperated at the front of the party without, pushed the door hard against the intruding limb, and held it fast, while one of the number procured a saw and actually sawed the man's leg off just below the knee! The agony of the poor man was not very excruciating, however, as the leg he lost was a wooden one So says the Olympia Herald

FINE HORSE MINES.—A correspondent writing from Placerville, says, "At the lowest possible estimate the diggings of Placer District are now yielding $50,000 per day, and the balance of the districts in the county are yielding twice as much more California Gulch, in Placer District, of itself yields $10,000 of this amount

A Union League was organized at Claquato, Lewis county, W T, on the 8th inst

The U. S steamer Wayanda has taken the place of the Revenue Cutter Shubrick on Puget Sound.

WAYS AND MEANS.—The Richmond Enquirer confesses the extremity of the rebels as follows "The horses that draw our artillery and baggage trains and ambulances are dropping their hoofs off and eating one another's tails off for want of proper food" It adds "Corn is not king now Corn is king, potatoes, hogs, hay, oats and cattle are sovereigns. But the people must not only produce—they must save Many a man drinks more corn in spirits than he could eat in bread Millions of bushels of grain are melted down into mean whisky while the cavalry horses and draught horses are starving"

From Artemus Ward, Jr

WASHINGTON, Jan 21, 63 —Its putty plane to my mind that we can't have Peas as long the fite goes on Not much The sympathizin Demos promist that these Rebellion sh pod be over as soon as they was 'lected, and they air doin all in thier power to get it over—all over the North. You cood stick more loyalty in a chicken's ear than such men possess.

The other day I pinted myself a committee ov the Whole to go to Richmun an see if I cood sent convine J Davis ov the error ov his ways, an persuade him to jine the Young Men's Christian Association Sumthin must be did to have the War stopt, or by the time its ended the Northern Sympathizers will have no Southern brethren, or no Constitution, or no Declaration of Injypendence, or no nothing, or anything else None Whar cood we procure G Washingtons J Quincy Jeffersons, Thomas Adamses, and etcettery, to make another Constitootion, an sutch—the larst especially ' kcke ansers—whar? That's why the Brecks air takin sich good care ov that instroument.

But I was goin to tell you about my trip to the Capitol ov the Southern Confederacy. It was a bootiful mornin that I started many a cloud obskevered the Orb ov Day, and I rove at the Secesh lines, a dirty looking Confederate called me "Halt," and pinted a bagonet at me. He arskt me who I was, an whar I was goin.

"My friendly ruff," sez I, "I is just bin up North stealin things, an sich like for Jeff Me an him air old pals."

He let me pass.

In doo course ov mail I arrove in Richmon I unfolded my mission, an was ushered into J. Davis's urgust presents He'd just returned from his speechifying tower.

"Tap us your flapper, old Covy, ' sez I, and dressin him in the F F V.'s approved dierlect

"Make known your bizness," sez he, "I is gettin up a proclamation for the extermination ov the hole Yankee nation and I aint got much leisure for enny other ockupation '

"I come," sez I, "on a mission ov peas Your Copperhead friends in the North will soon cease to exist, of things can't be arranged to prohibit the Unionisters from tearin the Constitootiah."

"What terms do you offer?" querried Jeff

"Wall," sez I, "I air instructed by the Copperheads (Wood, Stiles & Co, you know) 2 propos enmything which will disgrace the North. You kin take your niggers all over creation, includin Jursey "

"Wood that be Constitootional?" arskt J D., with a sly twinkle ov his eye

"O," sez I, "tis a matter ov no difference how much you chaps brake that artikul to sever the Union, so the Republicans air stopt from doin the same to keep the sed Union together. That's what your Nuth'ren chums want to see dun "

"Wall," sez the Confed. Pres, "ef your Government will let us secosh, an will pay all our debts, an give us brute Butler to hang we might cum to terms."

"Is that nothing else you cood wish?"

"Wall, yes—give us all the territories."

"Nothing else?"

"Throw in 2 or 3 free States—New York, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts, fur instance."

Nothing else?"

"You mite inclood ole Lincoln's hed."

"Can't you think ov nothing else?"

"Yes—in footer we must have all we ask.'

"J. Davis," sez I, "I hev no doubt your friends in the North wood make all these concessions, an more too; but it just occurred to me that thar was nothing said to Old Abe about it hed I left Washington. Shouldn't wonder of he'd object to the plan some. But your Democrat friends air doin all they kin for you."

"I know," sez J D; "an thats what keeps our spirits up. We air wantin for 'em to git in power, & then we expect to git all we ask An yet us Shivalry considered 'em the contemptiblest set ov dirt-eatin' cowards in the North. We cood buy em all for a Confed. Sainpiester."

Those was my opinion 2.

Jeff. askt me to stop an take T with him, an I kindly scop't. Ef a Secesh President don't git enmything better for the stummick's sake, as Saint Sumbody sez, than was on that table, then may A. W., Jr., be preserved from sich a fate. The Meat was a mosen site,

"P'raps you've eten better Pork than this, but its the best I've got," sez Jeff.

"Yes," sez I, "that's putty mean Ham, but I've seen a thundering site manner in Washington."

What kind's that?" he demanded.

"Vallandig Ham!"

After supper a sottish-looking chap entered, who staggered up to Jeff, throwed up his hat, an shouted:

"Nother vic-hic tory ' Washington taken prisoner—hic! Ole Abe Greeley captured—hic! Horace Linkon badly killed ! and George B. McBurnside surrendered—hic."

The cuss was old John letcher, in his famous roll ov the Drunkard. John only gits tite once a year, which is on New Years.

N. B.—He stays drunk till the next New Years.

But I returned to Washington, disgusted with all peas measures. The sympathizers may do thier own dirt eten in the footur, as they hev dun in the past Ever ov you,

A. WARD, Jr

HORRIBLE TREATMENT OF UNION MEN IN TEXAS.—In a recent speech in New York, General Hamilton, alluding to the treatment of Union men in that State, said:

I know they have died deaths not heard of since the Dark Ages until now, not only hunted and shot, murdered upon their own thresholds, but tied up and scalded to death with boiling water, torn asunder by wild horses fastened to their feet, whole neighborhoods of men exterminated and their wives and children driven away. I ask loyal men if these things ought to go on,

THE STARS ON OUR BANNER.—James T. Brady, in a recent speech, alluded to a visit to a room in the Vatican at Rome, upon the ceiling of which the flags of all nations were to be seen. He looked them over from the oldest to the youngest. When he saw the Stars and Stripes he asked himself the question why it was that our fathers were the first to put stars on the flags? The only answer that could be given was that our fathers looked up to God for help, that they saw the stars and planted them in our banner

A GOOD ANSWER.—When asked how it happened that so terrible a rebellion has sprung up in the blessed land of America, you can find no better reply than that of the Missionary, Dr Goodell, of Constantinople, who answered to inquiries from the Armenians on the same subject ' was there not a rebellion in Heaven"—Ex

Jacob Bramble was elected sheriff last fall Bramble was very pompous, very complacent, and very proud of the honor His neighbors called to see him, to congratulate him "Approach," said he, "approach very near, tho' I am sheriff elect, I feel that I am still one of you."

A clergyman advocating corporeal punishment for children, said ' The child, when once started in a course of evil conduct, was like a locomotive on the wrong track—it takes the switch to get it off.'
